Unclaimed Letters.—The following list of letters remaining unclaimed in the Post-office for the week ending: Oct. 5th, 1916: Mrs. Annie Evans, Mrs. Mary Bessick, Mrs. Martha Locking, George W. Harvey, Sperry Watters.

One of the wheat stacks on the farm "Woodland," owned by Mrs. Kathryn Wilson, and tenanted by Messrs. Wm. Loller and Thos. Craig, was burned on Tuesday morning last. It is supposed the fire was caused from the sparks of the engine, as the crop of wheat was being threshed. The loss was about 150 bushels of wheat, nearly covered by insurance.

Mrs. John Armstrong delightfully entertained the members of Bethesda M. E. choir at her home on Tuesday evening in honor of her thirty-ninth birthday. Mrs. Armstrong received several beautiful and useful gifts. Those present were:—Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Stewart and son Lewis, Mrs. Adam Reed, Miss Anna Denny, Miss Emily Allee, Miss Allie McKee, Misses Marian Frances and Catherine Armstrong and Mr. Charles Beaston.

MILLS DESTROYED BY FIRE

The large flour mills of J. Irvin Dayett, at Cooch's Bribge, were totally destroyed by fire early Friday morning, causing a loss of probably $50,000. This loss is partly covered by insurance, but to what extent will probably not be known until the adjustment is mabe. The greatest loss was in wheat burned. In the mill proper, which was destroyed, there was 8,000 bushel of wheat burned and 5,000 bushels in an elevator adjoining the mill was damaged by water. Wheat is now selling for from $1.50 to $1.60 a bushel, so this loss alone is more than $20,000.

The origin of the fire is a mystery, and there seems to be a suspicion that it was the work of an incendiary, Mr. Dayett lives with his family about two hundred yards from the mill. His daughter was the first to discover the blaze. See was awakened about 2 o'clock by the dog barking, and on looking out the window, saw that the mills were on fire. She awakened her parents but even at that time the blaze had spread over the building. The Newark firemen were telephoned for, and arrived in a short time. The firemen were handicapped in their run to Cooch's Bridge by a dense fog, which made it impossible to see more than a few yards in front of them.

When the firemen from Newark arrived on the scene there was no chance whatever of saving the main mill building the fire had gained such a headway. It was in this building that the 8,000 bushels of wheat were stored. In addition to the principal mill known as the clover mill there were two smaller adjoining buildings also burned to the ground. The firemen managed to save the elevator building a short distance from the mill although it was on fire several times, In saving the structure it was necessary to pump thousands of gallons of water in to it from the race and it is thought that this water totally destroyed the value of the 5,000 bushels of wheat stored there.

A quiet wedding took place in Philadelphia last Saturday evening, when Miss Jesse Rorabaugh, of Altoona, Pa., and Mr. C. P. Hearn, of Wilmington, were united in marriage. Miss Rorabaugh is well-known here having spent over a year as trained nurse for Mr. J. Wilson Merritt.

BASE BALL MINSTREL

Middletown Athletic Association will present a great Minstrel tonight, October 14th, in the New Century Club Theatre.

Did you ever see any one that you wanted to laugh at from the time you saw them until they disappeared? That is just what you are going to do when you see and hear the funny end men that will make their appearance as waiters in the Cabaret setting of the first part.

The ends will be taken care of by Pat Vinyard, Lee Vinyard, Elmer Vinyard, James Walker and William Bennett. It will be well worth the price of admission alone to hear Elmer Vinyard sing Steam Boat Bill. There will also be solos by Miss Jennie Gallagher, Miss Blanche Deakyne, John Dickinson, William Meyers, Mr. Frederick Brady and DeVaul Rhodes. End songs by Lee Vinyard, Pat Vinyard and William Bennett. And the funny jokes will produce a laugh a minute.

Part second will introduce the great laughing vehicle, written by Gus Edwards—Mose Gambo's last day of school, with Pat Vinyard in the title role.

Do not fail to see Mr. Bennett as Percy Van de Clear or Lee Vinyard as Tony Spaghetti. Mr. Campbell himself will play the role of an old German Professor. And there will be bevy of pretty girls to worry the old professor to distraction.

And last but not least will be the quartette which is sure to be the hit of the entire evening, these boys are being trained down to a fine point of harmony singing, and will without doubt be the hit of the Minstrel. Taken altogether the Base-ball boys have a show that will surpass anything ever staged by local talent in Middletown. Come out and give the Ball Team a boost. Seats are now on sale at Letherbury's, or can be obtained from any of the cast.

Infant Paralysis in the Future

Repeatedly and at regular intervals the medical specialists who have been fighting the spread of infantile paralysis here and in other cities have warned the public that the germ of the disease is long-lived and that it may persist inactively throughout the cold weather and precipitate another outbreak when summer returns.

Parents everywhere will be wise to act upon the suggestion coupled with this warning. They will be acting for the welfare of their own and other children in applying a rule of scrupulous cleanliness to their premises and to neighboring yards and alleys. It is this sort of precaution that may avert another agonizing period for the community next summer.

Germs breed in dirt. Without dirt they cannot persist. This is the lesson which all householders may learn from the period of worry that is just passing for parents of all classes and degrees in this city.—Phil. Bulletin.

Will our Town Board not pass this ordinance compeling all manure piles to be made fly tight? Nearly all the flies are bred in these places, and now that the dirty, deadly fly is shown to be the purveyor of many of the most serious diseases like, tuberculosis, typhoid fever, infantile paralysis, ect, Middletown should at once take measures to protect its citizens from this nasty peril of the fly by passing this ordinance. Besides getting greater protection for the children by passing this ordinance all the housekeepers will rejoice and Middletown will have the added fame of being "a flyless town."

Mr. and Mrs. A. Fogel delightfully entertained a number of young folks Tuesday evening, from 7.30 P. M to 9 P. M. The party was given in honor of Milton Liman and was a complete surprise to him. At any rate, Company E. should reach the Armory in Elkton, Md., by the latter part of next week.

INCREASED INTEREST IN MILITARY DRILL

Great interest is being shown by the students this year in military training. The work this year is in charge of Lieutenant Hoey, formerly of Dover, who at the beginning of the year gave the students to understand that diligent attention to duties and regular attendance would be strictly required. Under the leadership of Lieutenant Hoey, military drill has already taken a more prominent place in the life of the college.

DELAWARE DEFEATS OLD RIVALS P. M. C.

Delaware College opened its football season last Saturday with a decisive victory over Pennsylvania Military College at Chester. The score was 21 to 0. About 100 students accompanied the team to Chester, and marched in military formation to the football field preceded by the college band. The game proved that, in spite of the absence of several veteran players who are on the Mexican border, Delaware has a team that will be a credit to the college. On both offensive and defensive the best game for Delaware was played by Weldon, Selby, Loose, and Fidance, Clancy, a new man who comes to Delaware from Colby College, Maine, played a remarkably good game at the end. Now that the team has shown its mettle, the students are looking forward with confidence to the games with Haverford, Western Maryland, Dickinson, etc.

W. H. Savin, of Cheswold; N. W. Taylor, of Dover, and J. F. Davis will represent Delaware College at the Intercollegiate Cattle Competition to be held in connection with the International Dairy Show at Springfield, Mass. The men have been coached by Prof. Grimes since the opening of the year. When the Dairy Show was held at Chicago, ten teams representing leading state colleges took part; this year it is certain that most of the larger colleges east of the Mississippi will be represented.

The State of Delaware will be represented this year at the Springfield Exhibition by three teams of three members each chosen from the counties of the whole state. All expenses connected with the trip will be borne by the Federal government. Mr. F. A. Carroll, of the Extension Division of Delaware College, will be in charge of both the Boys' Clubs and the Girls' Clubs at the exhibition. To assist in training the teams, Mr. Davis, Mr. Stanley and Mr. Farrell, all of the Federal Service, have been in the state at various times. Miss Elizabeth Jefferson, of the Extension Division of the Women's College, who has been training Delaware girls in canning, etc., will accompany the team to Springfield.

Mr. Harold J. Clay, who has been in the state since July 1 studying market conditions in Delaware in co-operation with the Bureau of Markets of the Federal Government, has just returned to Washington. Mr. Clay is making a comprehensive report of his studies, which will be presented to the Markets Committee of the Board of Trustees at the next meeting.

ONE SUBMARINE DID THE WORK

All on Torpedoed Ships Had Time to Leave.

NO MORE SHIPS SUNK

Submarine Able To Submerge and Bob Up So Quickly As To Give the Impression There Were More Than One.

Newport, R. I.—The wholesale raid on foreign shipping south of Nantucket lightship Sunday was the work of one submarine, according to reports of American naval officers. Rear Admiral Albert Gleaves, commanding the torpedo-boat destroyer flotilla, which did such remarkably speedy rescue work, said that the reports of all his officers agreed that, to the best of their observation, one raider only was concerned. This boat presumably was the German U-53, which called at Newport to mail a letter to Ambassador Bernstorff, and then put to sea, without taking on an ounce of supplies, although she was 17 days from her base, according to the statement of her officers.

Admiral Gleaves said he could easily understand the positive statements of the captain of the Nantucket lightship and of sailors of the torpedoed vessels that more than one submersible was concerned. The U-boat, he said, was very fast and appeared to have been handled cleverly. It was easy, he pointed out, for her to disappear on one side of a ship and then show up unexpectedly at another spot. Doubtless he believed she had submerged and reappeared often enough to mislead any but a keen professional observer and to create the impression that more than one sea terror was operating.

This opinion would seem to be borne out by the statement of many of the refugees that the submarine had more business on hand than she could take care of at once and was obliged to request one steamer to wait her turn while another was being put out of commission. Lieutenant Commander Miller, of the destroyer Ericcson, who witnessed the destruction of the Stephano, said he was positive that only one submarine was in the vicinity at the time.

Crew Still Missing.

The known list of the victims of the U-boat's Sunday exploits remains at six, notwithstanding reports from the Nantucket lightship that three other ships, the identity of which could not be learned, were sent to the bottom. There also was a persistent rumor, without verification, that a British cruiser, one of the allied patrol fleet sent to the submarine zone, had been attacked.

TROOP SHIP TORPEDOED.

1,362 Of 2,000 Serbian and French Soldiers On Gallia Rescued.

Paris.—The steamship Gallia, an auxiliary cruiser carrying 2,000 Serbian and French soldiers, was torpedoed and sunk on October 4 by a submarine. Thirteen hundred and sixty-two men, picked up by a French cruiser and landed in boats on the southern coast of Sardinia, have been accounted for thus far.

The torpedo caused the explosion of ammunition in the hold of the Gallia and also destroyed the wireless apparatus, making it impossible to send out calls for help.

The crew and troops took to rafts and small boats, a number of which were picked up by the French cruiser. Others reached the Sardinian shore.

SIX STEAMSHIPS TORPEDOED

The Kingston's Crew Missing—Submersible, Believed U-53, Thought To Have U-Boat Assistant.

Boston.—The submarine arm of the Imperial German Navy ravaged shipping off the Eastern coast of the United States Sunday.

Four British, one Dutch and one Norwegian steamers were sent to the bottom or left crippled derelicts off Nantucket Shoals.

The destroyer flotilla of the United States Atlantic fleet picked up the passengers and crews of the destroyed vessels and brought them into Newport, R. I.

Kingston's Crew Missing.

So far as known, there was no loss of life, though at a late hour the crew of the British steamer Kingston had not been accounted for. A submarine held up the American steamer Kansan, bound from New York for Genoa with steel for the Italian Government, but later, on establishing her identity, the American was allowed to proceed. The Kansan came into Boston harbor late tonight for her usual call here.

The hostile submarine is believed to be the U-53, which paid a call at Newport Saturday and disappeared at sunset. Some naval men, however, declare that at least two submarines are operating close to the American shore, though outside the three-mile limit.

The Victims.

The Strathdeme, British freighter, torpedoed and sunk off Nantucket. Crew taken aboard Nantucket Shoals lightship and later removed to Newport by torpedo-boat destroyers. The Strathdene left New York yesterday for Bordeaux and was attacked at 6 A. M.

The West Point, British freighter, torpedoed and sunk off Nantucket. Crew abandoned the ship in small boats after a warning shot from the submarine's gun. Officers and men were taken aboard a destroyer. The vessel was attacked at 10.45 A. M. She was bound from London for Newport News.

The Stephano, British passenger liner, plying regularly between New York, Halifax and St. Johns, Newfoundland. Torpedoed southeast of Nantucket while bound for New York. Reported still afloat late tonight. Passengers and crew, numbering about 140, were picked up by the destroyer and transferred to the destroyer Jenkins. The attack was made at 4.30 P. M.

The Kingston, British freighter, torpedoed and sunk southeast of Nantucket. Crew missing and destroyer searching for them. This vessel is not accounted for in maritime registers and may be the Kingstonian. The attack occurred at 6 P. M.

Bloomersdijk, Dutch freighter, torpedoed and sunk south of Nantucket. Crew taken aboard a destroyer. The steamer was bound from New York for Rotterdam, having sailed last night.

The Christian Knudsen, Norwegian tanker, torpedoed and sunk near where the Bloomersdijk went down. Crew picked up by destroyers. The vesse sailed from New York Saturday for London.

NOT WARNED, SAYS CAPTAIN.

Thirteen Shots Fired, But None Hit the Strathdene, Master Reports.

New York.—Thirteen shots were fired at the British steamship Strathdene, one of the vessels sunk by a German submarine off Nantucket, before the 33 members of the crew had taken to their boats, according to Captain Wilson, the Strathdene's commander, who was brought here with his crew by the Uruguayan steamer P. L. M. No. 4.

FIGHTING U-BOAT CALLS AT NEWPORT

Drops in to Mail Letter to the German Ambassador.

SAILS AWAY IN 3 HOURS

Almost Before U. S. Navy Officials Had Time To Return Her Captain's Call, She Had Gone To Three-Mile Limit.

Newport, R. I.—Seventeen days from Wilhelmshaven, the Imperial German submarine U-53, dropped anchor in Newport harbor Saturday. Almost before the officers of the American fleet of warships through which the stranger had nosed her way had recovered from their astonishment, the undersea fighter had delivered a message for the German Ambassador, and, weighing anchor, turned Brenton's Reef lightship and disappeared beneath the waves just inside the three-mile limit.

As she came and went she flew the black and white colors of the German Navy, a gun was mounted on the forward deck and another aft, while eight torpedoes, plainly visible under the forward deck, gave mute assurance that the warship was ready for a fight at the drop of the hat.

Lieutenant-Captain Hans Rose, who hung up a new world's record in bringing an armed submarine in battle array across the Atlantic, said that he had called at Newport simply to mail a letter to Count von Bernstorff. He required neither provisions nor fuel and would be on his way, he said, long before the 24 hours during which a belligerent ship may remain within a neutral harbor had expired.

The American had been outside for meneuvers since morning and was returning when she came up with the German. The D-2, drawing near the stranger and making out her type, sent a wireless message to the shore headquarters of Admiral Knight, who relayed word of the appearance of the U-53 to the Navy Department at Washington. The American submarine preceded the visitor into the harbor.

The first report had it that it was the Bremen which was coming in. A newspaper man who had watched for weeks for the merchant submarine climbed to the tower of the United States Engineers' office and, with the aid of powerful glasses, made out two guns on the submarine.

A few minutes later he was in a motorboat making for the craft and was rewarded by being taken aboard The U-53 had made her way through the fleet of 37 United States warships, including destroyers and submarines, to an anchorage 200 yards to the westward of the torpedo station. Captain Rose stood on the quarterdeck as the correspondent came aboard and, after inquiring about the Bremen, said that he had come in to mail a letter to Count von Bernstorff, and asked for the newspaper man's credentials.

The latter exhibited an Associated Press badge and was intrusted with the correspondence for the Ambassador.

"Please forward this letter to Count Bernstorff," said the captain, "and report my arrival. They will be glad to hear it."

The correspondence, contained in a single envelope, was mailed at the local postoffice at 3 o'clock and should have started for Washington about an hour later. It should be at the German Embassy early tomorrow

A Busy Three Hours.

The submarine was in American waters a little more than three hours assuming that she continued to sea after submerging. Within that time the German commander paid official visits to Rear-Admiral Austin M Knight, commandant of the second naval district, and Rear-Admiral Gleaves, commander of the destroyer force of the Atlantic fleet, who was on board the flagship, the scout cruiser Birmingham. Both American officers returned the brief call promptly.

EXPORTS OVER THREE BILLIONS

Trade Balance to Set a Record This Year.

GREAT BRITAIN GETS THIRD

Report Of the Department Of Commerce Shows That Exports To Germany and Russia Have Almost Ceased.

Washington.—The enormous extent of recent gains in the export trade of the United States is disclosed in statistics just issued by the Department of Commerce. Total exports to the various countries for the first eight months of the calendar year were in many cases millions of dollars greater than those of the entire fiscal year of 1914 and very large increases are shown in percentages.

Exports to Greece for the eight months leaped 2,200 per cent., compared to the fiscal year 1914; to Russia 900 per cent.; to Norway 340 per cent.; to France 240 per cent.; to Denmark 140 per cent.; to Italy 129 per cent.; to the United Kingdom 103 per cent.; to Sweden 84 per cent.; to Cuba 42 per cent., and to Japan 25 per cent.

This vast export trade shows an apparent trade balance for the eight months $1,730,000,000 in favor of the United States and department officials predict that by the end of the year it will exceed $2,500,000,000. The total exports amounted to $3,435,969,212, an increase of $1,205,082,010 over the same eight months a year ago.

The largest gain was in exports to the United Kingdom, which took nearly one-third of all goods exported from the United States in that period. They amounted to $1,207,751,939, showing an increase of $554,000,000 over the same eight months last year, and $713,000,000 more than the entire fiscal year of 1914. France, the second best customer of the United States, took goods valued at $544,475,000, an increase of $211,000,000 over the previous eight months and $384,000,000 more than 1914. Canada was third, taking $373,736,569, an increase of $163,000,000 over the eight months of last year, but only $29,000,000 more than 1914.

Russia in Europe and Asia took $300,362,626 worth, an increase of $219,000,000 over the previous eight-month period. Greece's imports from the United States amounted to $23,597,141, compared with $1,100,000 in the whole fiscal year before the war.

Exports to Germany and Austria have almost ceased. Decreases for the eight months, when compared with the same period last year, were shown in exports to Denmark. The Netherlands and Sweden, but the totals, except for The Netherlands, exceed those of the fiscal year 1914.

Teutons Complain Of American Airmen With the Allies.

Washington. — The United States will take no action as a result of the various complaints from Teutonic sources that American aviators are at the front with the French Flying Corps.

These protests have been coming into the State Department through both diplomatic and consular officers and will be the subject of full discussion when Ambassador Gerard, now en route from Berlin, reaches Washington. But officials declared today that exhaustive consideration of all complaints from the Central Powers has convinced them that American aviators have kept strictly within the bounds of international law.

STATE CAPITAL

Annapolis—

Members of the Conservation Commission were gratified at the receipt of a letter from a merchant living in the Honga River district, where obedience to oyster laws has been the exception and not the rule, in which the writer asserts that, since the visit to that place of Commissioner Killian and Commander Howard a week or so ago, there seems to be a decided change of sentiment among the oystermen and that they are now in favor of having the oyster laws enforced. This change of mind, the letter goes on to say, developed when the oystermen began to discover that with the small measure and the high prices they are receiving for their oysters, they are making more money than they ever made before. For a time they felt, says the letter, that the enforcement of the law would impose a great hardship on them and as a result they were uneasy about the outcome. Up to October 1, 3,282 tongers' licenses had been issued to oystermen.

High Cost Hits Election.

The high cost of paper has hit the Board of Election Supervisors. The board has an appropriation of 8 cents a pound for the purchase of paper as it needs it, and it needs a considerable amount. When it got ready to take up the matter of having the ballots for the November election printed it was found that the price of the paper it uses had jumped to 15 cents a pound. President Marion McKee balked at the figures quoted, but it looks as if the board will have to pay the price or there will be no election ballots.

GERMAN BUTCHERIES

"Seventy-four persons were killed and 152 wounded in the Zeppelin raids over England on Saturday and Monday nights, according to a revised casualty list issued by the War Office this afternoon. The damage was slight. About half the victims are women and children."—Ex.

NEITHER the natural bloodthirstiness of the wild Indian, nor the fanatical ferocity of the barbarous Turk, is as cruel, as merciless as this studied brutality of the civilized (?) Germans.

Truly, an amazing spectacle this of the land that was the devout cradle of reformed Christianity, reverting to barbarism, rejecting God and His Christ for the cruel atheism of a crazy Nietzsche!

All Germany from the highest classes to the lowest, from Kaiser to peasant, is infected with this irreligious war madness that glories in deeds of blood, which would appal a Turk or a savage. The very priests and ministers at the altars of God are sanctioning and applauding barbarities which have made all Christendom shudder with horror.

Hence the awful cruelties practiced upon the innocent people of Belgium in a scheme of calculated terrorism to break their heroic spirit that dared do the very thing Germany in her own citizens so glorifies—defend the fatherland; hence the deliberate sacking of beautiful Louvain and the needless destruction by these German madmen of many works of Art like that matchless gem of architecture, the Cathedral of Rheims; hence that awful massacre of 1250 passengers on the Lusitania, and all the long list of want on devilish cruelties done on land and sea in these two years of war by these devotees at the shrine of Germany's new religion that was to displace the religion of Sinai and Bethlehem—her boasted Kultur.

To show that Germany is barbarous, if this fearful war record of hers had not abundantly proved it, when the news of that cruel deed of cowardly murder of non-combatants, the Lusitania massacre came, heathen Berlin went wild with joy; the school-children were given a special holiday in honor of the great achievement that among other 40 horrid incidents had drowned babes at their mothers' breasts—the bloodiest deed ever done on the wild ocean since creation's dawn; and the haughty Kaiser, the official "divine right" head of this whole dreadful business, honored with a medal and promotion, the wretch that did the wholesale murder.

So now, all Germany is applauding these cowardly, senseless deeds of midnight assassination that with Zeppelin airship bombs slay more mothers and babes in their beds. True, these savage deeds of mere murder yield no military gain whatsoever, but they do kill or mangle the wives and children of Germany's enemies, and that feeds the unspeakable blood-lust of her Moloch worshipers.

But, thank God, the end of this long war nightmare with its unheard of orgies of blood, is approaching. After slaughtering 500,000 of his soldiers in a fruitless six months assault on Verdun, the conceited Crown Prince has abandoned that attempt, and the whole German army, now weakened by heavy losses and hemmed in on four sides by the ever increasing numbers of its enemies, is practically no longer able anywhere to attack effectively. As Chancellor Bethmann-Hollweg publicly declared, "Germany, with her back to the wall, is fighting for her life."

The end, therefore, is no longer in doubt. It only remains to be seen how many months may be required to lay helpless in the dust, the face of this barbaric nation that has menaced the world's peace, and civilization as it has not been menaced since that earlier Frenchman, Charles Martel, at Tours turned back the Saracen hordes and saved all Europe from barbarism.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS

We print on our local page an editorial from the Philadelphia Bulletin which recites the warning of the medical experts that the germs of this most awful scourge ever known in this land, infantile paralysis, are long-lived and that they may survive the winter to reappear with increase virulency in the spring and coming summer, ordinance requiring all manure p and other filth to be covered from the flies have changed their views, the mothers of Middletown are looking to the Board to move in the matter by passing that ordinance so that time may be taken by the forelock and the town protected from the deadly flies when warm weather comes again.

It also adds the warning that all filth sources of disease should at once receive attention.

Certainly, no matter is so important as this one of safeguarding the lives of the children from the peril of infantile-paralysis, spread abroad by the flies.

Remember, open manure piles and infantile paralysis were shown to be directly connected in the city of Philadelphia where wards having the most stables, had the most cases of paralysis.

Then let our Board act at once, and not put the matter off till the flies are once more bred in the uncovered manure piles to torment the citizens, and carry their filth and disease into every household.

Hughes Sympathetic With Demands of Labor Which Are Proved to Be Just.

"I am sympathetic with every demand to improve the conditions of labor, to secure reasonable compensation for labor. I am in sympathy with every effort to better human conditions, and particularly the condition of those who toil in industrial pursuits, in railroad pursuits, in all these great activities that are essential to our prosperity. But when you have a proposition to change the scale of wage you have a vital proposition which requires examination. You must at least know whether the demand is a just one.

"Labor, of course, should not desire anything but what is just. I do not believe labor intends to ask for anything but what is just. What is just can be examined and will survive investigation. Nothing is lost by having the process of reason applied if only that which is just is required."—Mr. Hughes in His Speech at Portland, Maine.

SURRENDER TO FORCE WOULD TEND TO DISASTER.

"That kind of virus in our life—surrender to force—would bring us no end of disaster. If we let capitalists or workingmen, any interest, learn that the way to get what is wanted is by applying pressure and if we continue in that course for a few years, democracy will be a failure, and we might as well give up our form of government."—Mr. Hughes in His Speech at Portland, Maine.

PUBLIC OFFICER SHOULD STAND LIKE A ROCK

"Government under pressure is not American Government. Whenever pressure is applied to any public officer he ought to stand like a rock and say: 'Here I stand until we substitute reason for force. It is not an American doctrine to legislate first and investigate afterward.'"—Mr. Hughes in His Speech at Portland, Maine.

WE SHOULD CONSIDER WHAT IS RIGHT THEN DO IT

"Our Government is based on the idea that we have Legislatures to investigate, to consider what is right and to do what is right. It is based on the idea that public opinion is formed from discussion of questions, and that we can come possibly to right solutions. It is not based on the idea that the Government must act without knowing the justice and merits of the cause in which it acts."—Mr. Hughes in His Speech at Portland, Maine.

THERE SHOULD BE NO ACTION UNDER PRESSURE, UNDER DICTATION.

"We have one priceless treasure in this country, and that is the reign of good judgment after public discussion. In the long history of the people, victory after victory has been won over tyranny and force. We have a free press, we have a free form of public discussion, to the end that there may be a general understanding of our activities and a general appreciation of what is necessary to the improvement of our conditions. We may disagree about this measure or that, but we have confidence in the public judgment in the long run. Hence there is one thing which we must always maintain, and that is that there shall be no action on the part of our elected representatives, taken under pressure, under dictation. We must know what the facts are and what justice requires."—Mr. Hughes in His Speech at Portland, Maine.

Eleven Potent Reasons Why Senator duPont Should Not Withdraw From the Republican Ticket; Five Potent Reasons Why Townsend, Reinhardt and Swain Should Withdraw, Without Further Delay, From the Party Wreckers' Ticket

(EDITORIAL)

TO the end that the political situation in Delaware may be clarified with respect to a matter of prime importance to the Republican party and to the people of this State and the country at large, it may be well to announce at this time that under no circumstance will Colonel Henry A. duPont, senior United States Senator, withdraw from the Republican ticket as a candidate for re-election.

Those men who call themselves Republicans and who are merely conspirators against the Republican party and its principles and policies; those men who call themselves Republicans and who are working covertly with those conspirators; and those timid Republicans who have been thrown into panic by the threats of the would-be party wreckers may as well reconcile themseves to that fact and govern themselves accordingly.

Senator duPont, through no desire or fault of his own, but solely because of the congenital hatred of one man, was made the issue in the Republican primaries. His friends rallied to his support, and he won.

Senator duPont, through no desire or fault of his own, but solely because of the distemper of one man, was made the issue in the district caucuses which preceded the Republican State Convention. Once more his friends rallied to his support and won.

Senator duPont, through no desire or fault of his own but solely because of the hate-heat of one man, would have been made an issue on the floor of the State Convention hall had it not been that the bold and determined front of his many friends in the convention was such that those who had conspired against him did not dare to offer a candidate in opposition to his renomination.

He defeated his foes within the party lines and he will defeat them just as surely now that they have taken to the political bush and are resorting to guerrilla warfare against him.

Senator duPont will not withdraw because he is a Republican who is, by the grace of the Republican primaries, by the grace of the Republican caucus, by the grace of the Republican State Convention and by the grace of the ratification action of the Republican State Committee and the four Republican district committees, the Republican nominee. Neither the conspiracies of avowed political enemies, the treachery of professed political friends or the knee-knockings of apprehensive men who are real Republicans will induce him to withdraw. He is perfectly content to leave his official record and his political future to the sober judgment of the great electorate of the State of Delaware and to abide by that judgment, whatever it may be.

If he had followed the advice or heeded the dark forebodings of weak men who did not know the temper of the Republican electorate, he would not have entered the Republican primaries—and won them.

If he had followed the advice or heeded the dark forebodings of weak men who did not know the temper of the delegates to the Republican State Convention, he would not have permitted any fight to be made in his behalf in caucus or on the floor and thereby he would have been deprived of the satisfaction of winning one of the greatest personal victories ever won by any public man in our State.

If, after that victory, he had followed the advice or heeded the dark forebodings of weak men who did not know the temper of the Delaware electorate, he would have declined the nomination, retired from public life and permitted the Republican party of this State to pass into the keeping of men of the malodorous type of J. Frank Allee and Benjamin A. Groves and their distempered financial backer.

It was not in the nature of things that Senator duPont should pursue any of the several and consecutive courses suggested for his own political elimination. He had served the Republican party in good faith; he had announced his candidacy for a renomination in good faith; he had entered and won the Republican primaries in good faith; he had obtained the support of the Republican caucus in good faith; he received a State Convention platform endorsement in good faith; he accepted from that State Convention a unanimous renomination in good faith, and in like good faith he received and accepted the ratification action of the Republican State Committee and the four Republican district committees.

Every step he has taken has been marked by party loyalty and regularity. The suggestion that he withdraw is as insulting as it is unwarranted.

There is not one valid reason why Senator duPont should withdraw from the Republican ticket.

There are eleven good reasons why he should remain a candidate. They are:

First—He is a Republican.

Second—He has made an honorable record in Congress.

Third—He is the choice of the Republican electorate.

Fourth—He is the choice of the Republican caucus.

Fifth—He is the choice of the Republican State Convention.

Sixth—His candidacy has the ratification of the Republican State Committee and of the four district committees.

Seventh—His attitude towards all the other candidates on the Republican ticket is one of absolute loyalty.

Eighth—He has a valid right to expect and to demand from them the same measure of absolute loyalty toward himself, and his friends will insist that he receive it.

Ninth—The interests of our State and the country at large demand that Delaware shall return a Republican to the United States Senate to the end that that legislative body shall be in harmony with a Republican President and a Republican House, and Senator duPont is the only Republican Senatorial candidate in this State.

Tenth—He is entitled, by his record and by his renomination, to the support of every voter who deserves the name Republican, and also to the support of every lover of political fairplay and good government

Eleventh—He was requested by influential Republicans and other friends to announce his candidacy for a re-nomination. It was at their solicitation that he did so. They stood by him in the Republican primary and in the Republican State Convention. They are standing by him today. They will stand by him through the campaign. It would be manifestly unfair to those loyal friends were he to entertain the thought of withdrawing from the ticket.

So much for the political status of Senator duPont. Now let us turn attention to an infinitely more serious phase of the Republican situation in this State. We refer to the fact that Colonel John G. Townsend, Jr., the Republican candidate for Governor; David J. Reinhardt, the Republican candidate for Attorney-General, and William J. Swain, the Republican candidate for State Tresaurer, have been placed on the third ticket put in the field by the coterie of self-styled Republicans who are bent upon wrecking the Republican party and electing Democrats to office this Fall.

The seriousness of the situation is found not in the fact that they have been put on that party-wreckers' ticket, but in the fact that they have permitted their names to remain there, notwithstanding their knowledge that that ticket has been set up for the express purpose of wrecking the Republican party and defeating Colonel Henry A. duPont, the Republican candidate for United States Senator; Thomas W. Miller, the Republican candidate for Representative in Congress; George M. Fisher, the Republican candidate for Lieutenant-Governor; Charles J. Luff, the Republican candidate for State Auditor of Accounts, and Amos A. Watson, the Republican candidate for State Insurance Commissioner.

Surely Colonel Townsend, Mr. Reinhardt and Mr. Swain are not so lost to an intelligent understanding of the situation as to imagine for an instant that the friends of Senator duPont, Representative Miller, Mr. Fisher, Mr. Luff and Mr. Watson will condone or tolerate the act of party and associate disloyalty that would be symbolized by them continuing as candidates on that party wreckers' ticket.

Political magnanimity is not an unknown quantity in Delaware, but it never yet has reached the stage of shouting approval of men who seek to climb into official place over the wreckage of the party that nominated them and over the bodies of their associates on a regularly-constituted ticket.

The question that now confronts Colonel Townsend, Mr. Reinhardt and Mr. Swain is whether, in this election, they prefer party wreckers' support to Republican support, or Republican support to party wreckers' support. They must realize that they "cannot have both the milk and the meat."

We have given eleven reasons why Senator duPont should not withdraw from the Republican ticket. We shall now give five potent reasons why Colonel Townsend, Mr. Reinhardt and Mr. Swain should withdraw from the party wreckers' ticket. They are:

First—They have been nominated by the Republican party for high and important office, and in the belief that they will do everything possible to promote the principles and policies of that party and to elect its representatives to office.

Second—The third ticket upon which they also have been nominated has been set up not to conserve the Republican party, but to wreck it; not to promote the principles and policies of that party, but to injure or destroy them, and not to elect representaitves of that party to office, but to defeat them.

Third—The party wreckers' ticket represents no political impulse that recommends it to the favorable consideration of any loyal Republican or any lover of good government.

Fourth—Republican control of the next Congress may depend upon the re-election of Colonel duPont to the Senate and Representative Miller to the House. The failure of Colonel Townsend, Mr. Reinhardt and Mr. Swain to withdraw from the party wreckers' ticket is not only interfering with the proper and aggressive conduct of the Republican campaign but making possible a continuance of Democratic control of both branches of Congress.

Fifth—The Republican voters of Delaware will not support any man who strikes hands with or lends encouragement to a movement which has personal enmity for its chief impulse and the wrecking of the Republican party and the defeat of a majority of the candidates on the Republican ticket for its chief objects.

In view of the foregoing, and of the approach of the general election, it will be well for those men who have been scheming to get Senator duPont off the Republican ticket and to keep Colonel Townsend, Mr. Reinhardt and Mr. Swain on the party wreckers' ticket to abandon their impractical and impossible projects and to settle down to the legitimate enterprise of electing the Republican ticket that was nomidated in Dover on August 22—and when we say "electing the Republican ticket," we mean electing all of it and not part of it.

No candidate on that ticket is so spineless as to permit himself to be used by any other candidate as a sacrifice for a Republican party wreckers' holiday. It will be better for those who are planning for that party wreckers' holiday to give heed to that fact now, when they have time to change their policy, than to ignore it until it is too late for them to do so. But, whatever they may decide to do, let them not lose sight of three material facts. One is that Senator duPont will remain on the Republican ticket until the polls close on November 7 and that the same public favor which won him the nomination will win him the election. Another is that it is not likely that Colonel Townsend, Mr. Reinhardt and Mr. Swain will so far forget themselves as to remain on the party wreckers' ticket. The third is that the Republican friends of Senator duPont, Representative Miller, George M. Fisher, Charles J. Luff and Amos A. Watson will not stand by and see them sacrificed on the altar of the Malodorous Order of the Political Double Cross for the benefit of any Republican candidate who is so indiscreet as to linger in the ante-room of the Order.

The friends of duPont, Miller, Fisher, Luff and Watson demand a square deal from and for every candidate on the Republican ticket. They want nothing less; they want nothing more, and they will know how to deal with those men who refuse to give it.

MAKING the FARM PAY

By PROF. P. G. HOLDEN, Former Dean of the Iowa Agricultural College.

Which Wins on Your Farm, Crops or Weeds?

BANDIT CROP OF THE FARM

Weeds mean waste—a waste of time, money, labor and land. Weeds rob our crops of light, food and moisture; occupy land where profitable crops should be grown; cheapen our farms; injure live stock; harbor insects and fungus diseases. Weeds are the bandit crop of the farm. They knock the courage out of a man's heart, and drive many of the less determined husbandmen to the cities in search of jobs.

The United States department of agriculture estimates the loss to the American farmer from damage to crops by weeds, to be more than $300,000,000 every year. This is actual money loss, due to short crops. It does not include the losses from depreciated property. If we are to match our wits against the weed, we must have our heads in the game. Weeds are with us to stay. They are right on the job all the time. The special business of the weed is to secure nourishment for itself, to perpetuate its species.

The weed which is best able to cope with difficulties is the weed which survives.

Weeds are abundant seeders. A single plant of shepherd's purse may produce as many as 50,000 seeds; squirrel tail produces 300 to 2,000; plantin may bear 3,000 seeds per plant; foxtail, from 1,000 to 5,000 seeds; stinkweed, 20,000 seeds; the Russian thistle from 100,000 to 200,000 seeds, and one mustard plant, one and one-half million seeds.

Soil Robbers.

Compare these prolific soil robbers with our food-producing plants. Through centuries of time weeds have become adapted to certain soils and climate conditions. In other words their species are fixed. They are hardy veterans able to withstand the extremes of heat and cold, or drouth and excessive moisture without injury.

Our worst weeds are not the species which were found in this country when the first settlers came. They had not learned to adapt themselves to all conditions. Few of them are here now.

When the forests were cleared the native weeds being unaccustomed to the hot sun, perished. When the marshes were drained, the pioneer weeds disappeared with the water. When the prairies were cultivated the prairie weeds fled. They were not bred to endure the tramp of feet, and when civilization came bringing with it the multitudes of men they soon died out.

Some of the Bad Weeds.

But there are other weeds—milkweed, smartweed, Spanish needle, mustard, peppermint, tansy, poison hemlock, jimson, morning-glory, ragweed, velvet leaf, purslane, quack grass, wild garlick, Canada thistle, ox-eye daisy, bindweed, orange hawkweed, Johnson grass, sorrel, wild oats and fifty others that are common wherever man is.

Most of these have been brought to us from Europe. More than 600 species of weeds have been introduced into New England since the first cutting of the forests.

Weeds are classified as to length of life as:

Annuals, those that spring up, grow, produce seed and die the same year. Examples: Foxtail, ragweed and smartweed.

Biennials, those which spring up and produce a leaf growth one year, live through the winter, and the next spring send up a stem shoot which flowers and seeds, usually early, then the plant dies. Examples: Mullen, bull thistle, wild carrot, black-eyed Susan.

Perennials, those whose roots live from year to year. Familiar examples of these are quack grass, milkweed, horse-nettle and the dandelion.

How Weed Seeds Are Spread.

Weeds seeds are spread chiefly by man sowing impure seed; by scattering weed seeds in feeding hay, straw, screenings and in manure; by winds, water and snow; by animals and birds; by farm machines and railroads; by weeds allowed to flourish in waste places.

Every weed that is allowed to mature produces hundreds of thousands, and even millions of seeds. Having produced a large quantity of seed, the next step is to distribute it. And in this task the weed has many helpers. First: A large part of the weed seed is distributed by the sower who sows impure seed. Imported grains and low grade grass seed contain a large proportion of weed seeds.

Much of the seed which cannot legally be sold in Canada and in European countries is sent into this country to states which do not have a pure seed law, so there is a large possibility of imported seed being impure.

Impure seed does not necessarily mean seed which has been willfully adulterated. Don't think just because you grew the seed yourself and did not put any weed seeds in to it that it is any better than that which you might buy. If you or your neighbors allow weeds to flourish, there are chances that your seed will bear a large proportion of weed seed.

Weed Remedies.

The problem is how to get rid of weeds and keep them out.

First, rotate the crops; screen all seed; cultivate frequently and thoroughly; cut the weeds before they go to seed, use smother crops; pasture with sheep; and finally keep everlastingly after them.

If your wheat field is weedy, seed it to clover and blue grass; mow the annuals and biennials before they seed, pasture with sheep or hogs to keep down the perennials; follow by a cultivated crop to kill any lingering weeds, and you will have disposed of most varieties.

Rotate, Pasture, Cultivate.

Avoid sowing weed seed. Fan and grade all seed.

Prevent leaves forming. Cut just under the crown and repeat the operation as often as the leaves appear. Plants cannot live long in the growing season unless the leaves develop. If no leaves are allowed to form, the plant root will starve.

Generally in dealing with biennials, it is necessary to cut below the crown, or the plant will quickly send forth new shoots and perhaps seed close to the ground, where ordinary mowing will not reach it.

If cut off the first year, the root is not so deep, is more tender, more easily cut and more easily killed. If prevented from seeding, sometimes biennials will appear the third year. Watch for such sprouts.

Cut Before Flowering.

Another point which may mark the difference between success and failure in your weed campaign is to cut just before flowering. While the plant is growing it is storing away vitality toward the time when it shall need it for fruit production. When it begins to produce fruit, it draws on this surplus stock. When it has budded it has used a large part of this stored vitality and is weaker than at any other time except when it is very young. Now is the time to cut. The seeds will not be formed enough to live on to maturity, the plant is at its weakest and is more readily killed. If in addition, the weather is hot and dry, it is practically certain the root will die.

If you wait until it blossoms, some of the seed may mature enough to ripen even after the plant is cut down and some seed will scatter for next year's weed crop. If after cutting the seed seems to be mature enough to ripen, the only safe way is to rake the weeds together and burn them. Sometimes seed which seems to be green will mature after it is plowed under, lie dormant in the soil until conditions are favorable, then sprout.

Method for Perennials.

To eradicate perennials, the same proposition holds: Prevent the old plants seeding; kill the young plants as they appear; kill the root stock.

The most absolutely effective way to kill a root is to dig it out. If you have only a small patch and the weeds are really noxious, this may be the safest way. If you have a large patch and the roots are long and strong this is an almost impossible task. In any case it is a tiresome one.

Control Wire Worms.

Wire worms injure corn and potatoes most but feed freely on wheat and oats. They thrive best in sod ground and may be controlled by crop rotation, fall plowing and good cultivation. So may the grub-worm.

Care of Farm Machines.

Machines need to be kept clean, well oiled and properly adjusted. That's about all there is to it, yet the majority of farmers do not seem to keep on friendly terms with their machinery.

Early Cultivation Needed.

Shallow, early cultivation is needed for corn that was planted in a thoroughly prepared seedbed. It is this method that best kills the weeds and prevents the formation of a crust, thus keeping the moisture in the soil.

Double-Cropping in Garden.

Double-cropping may be followed to advantage in a small garden. Beans, corn, cucumbers, tomatoes and late celery follow the early crops very nicely.

EVENING PETTICOAT

TO BE MADE OF SOFT TAFFETA AND CREPE DE CHINE.

Width of Garment Depends Upon Gown With Which It Is to Be Worn—Wide Variety of Colors and Materials.

The sketch illustrates a very dainty "evening" petticoat, employing soft taffeta in one of the pastel shades for its upper section, the lower part being of crepe de chine in blending or contrasting shade. Each of the pointed tabs of chiffon is ruffled in silk, the same finish being applied to the edge of the skirt.

If desired pompadour flowered silk may be used with plain color chiffon, and the effect will be very pleasing.

Manufacturers of petticoats, as well as the retail shops, state that experience has convinced them of the folly of trying to sell plain, "sensible" undergarments, and this is especially true of petticoats. Women buy the showy kind most freely.

In evening petticoats especially is it impossible to give an ironclad ruling as to correct width. If a flaring frock is worn it must be held out by equally flaring petticoats; and if a dress cut on straight lines is worn, then obviously a narrower skirt will be required, which literally means that every woman should equip herself with a generous supply of petticoats.

To make the petticoat sketched, two and a half yards of silk 36 inches wide will be required for upper section and ruffings, with approximately three yards of chiffon or other sheer fabric for flounce.

In utility petticoats of taffeta and satin developed for the coming season, purple is quoted as a favorite color. However, a range of bright shades is popular, including rose, gold, Copenhagen blue, wistaria, Belgian blue and several shades of green.

Petticoats, like separate blouses, are developed in shades to match the suits, and womankind may select a petticoat to tone exactly with the street tailleur with which she intends to wear it, or she may go to the other extreme and select one that contrasts as vividly as possible, and in either case be satisfied that style approves her choice.

Shot silks and some pretty brocades have been pressed into service for the development of petticoats.

ENTIRE SKIRTS OF TULLE

In Popularity This Durable Material Is in a Measure Taking the Place of Chiffon.

Probably if we called tulle by its right name of "silk net," women would not look askance at the suggestion of afternoon skirts made of it. It still rests in their minds as an expensive evening fabric that must be renewed after each dance.

The net in its present weaving is durable and gives one relief from the ubiquitous chiffon which has been used for millions of frocks—is millions an exaggeration?—since it became fashionable.

The skirt of black tulle or net has a line of embroidery above the hem, the design being wide open flowers done in pale green beads. The blouse, if a collar and a sash may be joined and called by one name, is of thin black satin, crossed over the shoulders like a cape, wound around the waist as a girdle and finished at the sides with wide streamers edged with a fringe of green and black beads.

These pendant streamers from the waistline are significant because Paris has sent over several sketches recently of gowns which have various methods of employing ribbon ends.

There is an empire evening gown with a wide sash of black velvet that runs the entire length of the left side, embroidered with scarlet roses done in silk floss and pressed flatly into the velvet surface.

There is a blouse of blue taffeta which has wide blue and white ribbon pendant streamers in front of each hip, ending in fringe; and here comes this satin shawl bodice with its streamers that hang to the hem of the skirt.

CHEAP WASTE-PAPER BASKET

Can Be Easily and Quickly Made and Serves All Purposes of More Expensive One.

This is a quickly made and very cheap receptacle for waste paper. First decide on the size you wish to make it, then cut two oblong pieces of cardboard that will divide into three squares the height and width you wish the basket to be; cover one side with plain sateen or paper and the other with black and white stripe; either paste or seam the edges; place one piece over the other evenly to form a cross as shown in small diagram; stitch edges where they cross to form a firm foundation; make two holes in each side as shown by the short lines; bend the sides up, letting each form an even edge to the square bottom when folded, then join the edges of sides together by passing ribbon through the holes and tying in bows.

TIPS FOR SEWERS

A centerpiece which is stamped too close to the edge should have a bit of muslin basted to the edge so that it may be caught in the embroidery hoops.

Two pasteboard tubes around which waxed paper is wrapped may be gummed together to form the foundation of a centerpiece roll.

Patching and darning can be done in a much more artistic and neater manner when embroidery hoops are used.

DEBUTANTE'S DANCING FROCK

This is one of the latest frocks to pass the critical eye of Dame Fashion. The skirt of this costume is a combination of tiny ruffles of sage green chiffon edged with narrow velvet ribbon. The puffed side-drapery is of the same shade, being of green tulle and with a wide band of gold lace. The bodice is of gold cloth, a wide bertha of heavy corn lace. The three rows of black velvet add the finishing touches.

MANY USES FOR A MARK

Monograms for Household and Table Linen and for Note Paper in Favor Again.

The monogram, which for several seasons was more or less out of favor, is in again. Separate letters formed into initials in round, diamond or square panels are also used. Single initials are used, too. Then there are ciphers, cryptic combinations of initials or other arrangement of initials or the letters of the name in odd and hidden fashion.

Marks of all these sorts can be used on household and table linen; on note paper they are engraved. Sometimes a book plate is no more than a cipher, and anything of this nature, because it is so personal, is sure to be effective.

Some women make a point of having their marks on everything alike. This, of course, is so when a crest is used. But the same idea can be carried out with any other sort of symbol.

When it comes to ready-made marks there are many kinds. There are names woven in tape and initials, for linens, and there are paper and cloth initials over which one can embroider. There are printed book plates to paste into books, and there are dies for sealing wax and ready-stamped initialed paper.

For Rugs.

To clean rugs and carpets use the following compound: Make a suds with a good white soap and hot water and add fuller's earth to this until it is of a consistency of cream. Have plenty of clean drying cloths, a small scrubbing brush, a large sponge and a pail of fresh water. Put some of the cleaning mixture in a large bowl and dip the brush in it. Brush a small piece of the rug with this, then wash with the sponge and cold water. Dry as much as possible with the sponge, and finally rub with dry cloths. Continue this until certain all the rug is cleaned, and then let dry.

Beaded bags are as much used as predictions indicated. Sometimes the beads are sewed to velvet or silk, sometimes they are worked into a crocheted foundation.

HOME TOWN HELPS

FIELD STONES FOR BUILDINGS

These Bowlders Are Used Extensively in Constructing Homes in Many Sections of California.

Cobblestones combined with cement are used extensively in the West for all kinds of ornamental and utilitarian construction. From ornamental urns and corner markers to foundations, bandstands, bridges, and even such large structures as two-story houses churches, and even an observatory may all be found in California, built of the cobbles that are removed in clearing.

The resulting edifices are of remarkably artistic appearance. The economy of this type of building is well shown by the fact that in the citrus belt near Los Angeles thousands of tons of cobblestones are dug up by the Hindu laborers and piled in great heaps between the groves. These cobble piles are often fifteen feet high and twenty feet broad, and extend for many rods between the cleared fields. They are literally cheaper than dirt.

It is but natural that many of the best specimens of cobble construction are found in that district. The rounded stones merely encumber the ground, and most owners are willing to help pay for their removal to a building site.

In the citrus section may be found an observatory in the grounds of Pomona college, which is a splendid bit of architecture.

Near by is one of the most attractive homes in the West, a great, rambling bungalow of field stones which has for its main interior feature a sun parlor or glass-roofed patio. This is a most attractive detail of a charming home, with ferns and flowers growing as in a conservatory, but in a temperature suited for its use as a general living room.

In Azuza may be found a decidedly artistic cobblestone church, with only a few roughly squared stones used in connection with the natural-shaped bowlders and field stones. San Diego has two large two-story houses formed of this material, and the suggestion of permanence as well as rustic charm is made by the utilization of the big pebbles.

In the larger cities there are countless specimens of public as well as private construction formed of this rough-and-ready material. The parks contain splendid examples of the decorative possibilities of cobblestones. The bridge in Ganesha park is far more in keeping with its surroundings of trees and shrubs than a more formal structure would be, and this applies to the bandstand in the same park and to the drinking fountain in Eastlake park, Los Angeles.—Popular Science Monthly.

BE CAREFUL OF HOME PLANS

Don't Forget That Slight Details, Now Overlooked, May Cause Much Dissatisfaction Later On.

When planning the new house, as much attention should be given to the things which should not be done as to those which should be done. Unless thought is given to many details apparently slight, but which may cause much trouble and annoyance later, if not properly planned at the start, dissatisfaction is sure to result when the home is completed and occupied.

Some of the things which should not be done, if future convenience is desired, may be avoided by carefully observing the following "don'ts:"

Don't set your house too low. Better have it a foot high than an inch too low. The street grade may be raised at any time, and if the house sets low this will make it look squatty.

Don't fail to provide proper drainage under the cellar wall and through the center of the cellar, under the concrete floor. This may easily be accomplished by constructing a dry drain or trenches filled with small stone. If this precaution is omitted, a damp cellar will be the result in nine cases out of ten, unless there is a very abrupt slope to the land on which the house stands.

What Baltimore Did.

Which would you rather have, a dirty lot in the rear of your home or a beautiful green garden that produces vegetables, fruit and pretty flowers each year? It is not a hard matter to decide, yet when this question was put up to the people living in a part of Baltimore some few years ago there were many who preferred the dirty back lot. Of course, there were others who desired the pretty garden, and now that the garden is a reality not one person in that neighborhood would take 20 lots for one small section of the green spot.

It was through the efforts of the Woman's Civic league that dirty lots in all sections of that city have been transformed into pretty vegetable and fruit gardens. On the very same spots where boys played ball and people threw all kinds of rubbish, one finds beds of beautiful flowers and rows of potatoes, tomatoes, peas, beans, carrots, onions and corn every summer. Berries of all descriptions in season and peach, apple and other fruit trees are also to be found there.

Black Snakes Beneficent.

In Burlington county, New Jersey, the farmers who, in the erroneous belief that they are a pest, have been killing black snakes, are being urged to conserve them as enemies of the rattlers, which have been unpleasantly numerous this year. The damage done by the non-poisonous reptiles is now recognized to be of slight account in comparison with the good they do. Not only will the black snake fight and best the rattler, but he earns more than his keep by keeping down other pests. It has taken man a long time to identify his friends of the lower orders, and even today many persecuted animals do not receive the credit that is due to them.—New York Sun.

JAPAN WILL HELP CHINA

Will Float Big Loan Chinese Financiers Failed to Get in This Country.

Japan is preparing to lend $30,000,000 to China. This is the result of the failure of China to float a loan in New York. Like ourselves, the Japanese have made money out of the war and are able to extend credit to other countries. This loan will strengthen Japan's influence in China, but we have no right to object. We would not help China. Those who say Japan will dominate China and that trade will follow money are probably right. We can learn something from Japan.

Just as China is within Japan's sphere of influence so is all Latin America within our sphere of influence. We have no designs on our neighbors other than our desire to trade with them and to have peace in this hemisphere. Most of the Latin-American republics need money quite as much as China does. We have more available capital than any other country, perhaps more than all other nations combined. The United States is the only place where sufficient money can be found at present to meet the requirements of Latin America. If we invest money we will secure trade just as we expect Japan to do in China. Instead of weeping about lost opportunities in the Orient let us improve our own in the Americas. No complications with other Great Powers about open doors and spheres of influence need be feared in this hemisphere and our exporters will find fewer difficulties in the languages and trade customs. Losing a chance in China is a good reason for not losing others in the Americas.—New York Commercial.

WHITE PINE IS IN PERIL

Blister Rust in the East Has Caused Heavy Ravages in Timber.

The present is a gloomy hour for the forestry enthusiasts, especially in the eastern states, where so much reliance is being placed upon the white pine as the tree par excellence for quickly rehabilitating our shabby woodlands. Last year's discoveries in Massachusetts of the dread blister rust of Europe led other states to investigate within their borders. The active and well organized co-operative effort that is now being made by the federal department of agriculture and the officers of the several states whose timber interests are involved indicates the seriousness with which they regard the situation. Since their work for the control of the disease began in the early summer it has become apparent that while Massachusetts is beyond question dangerously infected in certain sections, other states, whose officers regarded their territory as relatively free, are, in fact, no better off than we. All New England is on the fever map, and even Wisconsin and Minnesota investigators have lately turned up infection.

Hope for the successful control of the fungus is not forlorn, considering the plant pathologists who are conducting the campaign. The greatest need of the present hour, however, is a livelier interest on the part of our woodland owners.

CHINA WANTS OUR GOODS

American Manufacturers Are Meeting Favorable Reception at Hands of Orientals.

The Chinese are beginning distinctly to favor American goods and regard America as a model from a manufacturing as well as governmental viewpoint, according to Maurice Benjamin, general manager of the Oliver Import and Export company, Shanghai, China. In spite of the famine in freight, he says, American manufacturers are not only gradually finding their way into China, but are being sought by the Orientals.

"The tremendous disturbances in Europe have not failed to leave traces in China," he said. "In this the high freight rates have played no small part. China wonders why so large a nation as America should have no mercantile marine. In some lines where only $10 per ton was paid before the war for transportation from the United States west coast to China, as much as $40 per ton has recently been paid.

"I believe the day is not far distant when we will see a new China. When the 400,000,000 people there begin to want machinery, railways and other requirements of civilization America will benefit. It is a common error to think that the Chinese are too inveterately conservative to adopt Western civilization. The cost of living of Chinese in towns where there are Europeans has probably doubled in the last few years."

EXPENSE OF FILLING WELL-BUILT SILO

CUTTING SILAGE AND FILLING A SILO.

Where the silo is well constructed practically none of the feed is wasted by spoiling and the cattle clean up every morsel of it. Some cheap wet roughness can be placed on the silage after filling, thus preserving even the top layers of the feed.

The cost of filling the silo is usually considered one of the expensive items. However, much of the expense, which is heavy, is no more than if corn harvesting time would be lengthened out, possibly over a period of several months. Corn husking and the corn-stalk problem in the barnyard are eliminated, and when a corn field free of shocks at wheat-seeding time is also considered, the farmer can pay the $1.25 per hour for the engine and cutter with his money well spent.

On the whole adverse criticisms of the silo are forgotten when its many advantages are taken into account. The silo takes the corn crop away from the field mouse and the crow; it keeps it away from the rats and mice, and also the human thief, who otherwise could steal the corn from the crib. The silo also does away with the shocking of corn in the field, and the grinding of it for feed if it is to be used through the winter to balance some ration. But the main advantage is the matter of economy, of dollars and cents.

No Room for Argument.

A silo brings in so much greater returns with so much less work, be its contents fed to cows, stock, cattle, hogs, or even chickens, that the room for adverse argument has disappeared, and even in our hill section where silos are most needed, the absence of a silo from the feed-lot is fast getting to be the exception rather than the rule.

THOROUGH DRAINAGE IS MOST PROFITABLE

Increases Corn Yield Over Three Bushels Per Acre—Pays Interest on Investment.

"Less than 5 per cent of Iowa farms are thoroughly drained," says M. F. P. Costello, agricultural engineer at Iowa state college.

"It costs on the average of $4,000 to drain thoroughly a 160-acre farm. On most of these farms where there is any drainage at all only about one-fourth of this amount is expended. The average farmer drains out the wet spots from his land in order to get a uniform tillage area and thinks his drainage duty is over. It has just begun.

"Thorough drainage pays," maintains Mr. Costello. "Conservatively speaking, such drainage will surely increase the yield on a corn area over three bushels an acre, which increase, itself, will pay the interest on the amount invested in drainage on that acre."

Draining even the rougher land is also advised to prevent washing.

FALL SELECTION OF POTATOES PAYS WELL

Farmer Can Get Good Idea o Uniformity of Tubers Produced by Individual Vines.

(By A. G. TOLAAS, University Farm, St. Paul.)

It pays to select next year's seed potato tubers from the field at digging time, better than to select them from the bin next spring. Here are reasons why seed selections is more easily taken care of now than when the potatoes are in the bin.

At digging time one can get a good idea as to the type and uniformity of tubers produced under individual vines which cannot be obtained after the crop has been put in storage. Seed should be selected only from vines producing several uniform, average-sized, true-to-type tubers. Such selection cannot be practiced when the seed is selected out of the bin.

Tubers affected with scab, russet scab, late blight rot, black leg rot and brown ring discoloration due to wilt should be discarded. To avoid the possibility of getting tubers infected with black leg rot or brown ring discoloration, the field should be thoroughly inspected before the vines have dried up. Seed from infected plants should not be kept; in fact, wilted plants, together with what tubers may have been formed on them, ought to be destroyed.

Plants affected with leaf roll, early dwarf and mosaic should be destroyed and no tubers saved from them. Although these diseases do not cause any visible injury on the tubers, the use of infected seed will reduce the yield and finally cause the potatoes to "run out."

The diseases are described in detail in Minnesota Station Bulletin No. 158, which can be obtained on application to the office of publications, University Farm, St. Paul, Minn.

HEAVY FROSTS WILL IMPAIR GERMINATION

One Factor That Regulates True Value of Seed Corn of Any Class or Variety.

(By C. P. BULL, University Farm, St. Paul.)

Seed corn that does not germinate 90 per cent or better is not fit to be planted for the production of ears. Germination is the one factor that regulates the value of seed corn of any class or variety. Even fodder corn seed ought to have a high germination testing power. A false impression prevails that fodder corn does not need to have a high germination record, like ear corn seed.

Killing frost on standing corn is almost sure to impair the germination of the seed. It is better to cut too early than too late. If cut and shocked when about 90 per cent of the ears are just well dented, the kernels will fill out properly in the shock and the germination will be preserved. A killing frost while the corn is standing may almost destroy the germinating power. The injury will be relatively larger as the crop is less mature.

ASCERTAINING HOW MUCH SOIL WEIGHS

Acre-Foot Varies From 3,500,000 to 4,000,000 Pounds—Knowledge Is Valuable.

(By J. D. MARSHALL, Colorado Agricultural College, Fort Collins, Colo.)

The common method of expressing the weight of a soil is so many pounds to the acre foot. By an acre foot is meant the volume of soil one acre in extent and one foot in depth. The weight of any soil is governed largely by the composition of the soil, its structure, and the amount of organic matter present. The weight of an acre foot varies from 3,500,000 to 4,000,000 pounds.

The value of knowing the weight of a soil lies in the possibility of calculating the amount of water, humus and plant in the soil and through this it is possible to compare two soils as to their cropping powers.

Fodder corn may be grown in the latter part of the summer on a field that has produced rye. These late crops are a valuable addition to the winter supply.

One of the best cures for sore shoulders on the horse is powdered boracic acid dusted in the sore; it is healing and nonirritating.

DAIRY

TO PREVENT WHITE SCOURS

Pennsylvania State Experiment Station Outlines Some Suggestions to Prevent Disease.

White scours is a germ disease, hence its suppression lies in the prevention of infection. The Pennsylvania state experiment station outlines the following suggestions for the prevention of this disease:

The cow should be permitted to drop her calf upon a clean bed of straw in a thoroughly disinfected stall. Immediately after birth of the calf, the umbilical cord should be soaked in a 2 per cent solution of some standard dip. A wide-mouthed vessel will be the most convenient container for the solution, as it may be held close to the body and the cord folded down into the solution.

To prevent contamination the cord should not be touched with the fingers. After soaking, both the cord and an area three inches in diameter surrounding it should be painted with iodine, by means of a small piece of absorbent cotton. A drying powder of equal parts boric acid, powdered alum and flowers of sulphur should then be dusted on the cord twice daily until it has dried off. The powder should be applied with a dusting can.

Additional precautions include the rinsing of the cow's udder with a dip solution to destroy germs on these parts before the calf is suckled, and thorough cleaning of the stable, including disinfection of the walls and floors.

If the calf is very valuable, dairymen are advised by the Pennsylvania station to inject a serum prepared from a number of organisms found in calves with white scours, as a preventive. This should be done as soon as the calf is dropped.

DAIRY FARMER LOSES MONEY

Raises Most of Feed and Buys Very Little Material—Herd Helps Keep Up Fertility of Soil.

How can a dairy farmer lose money on his cows and still make a living? The answer is easy. The farmer raises most of his feed and probably buys very little material not raised on the farm to assist him in feeding appetizing balanced rations. He has the herd to assist him in keeping up the fertility of the soil and spends little if any money for commercial fertilizers. It results in a small profit on the farm, but profit is made on feed raised and not on the dairy cattle that consume it.

The farmer who is losing money on dairy cattle, but yet making a living on his farm might possibly make more money if he sold the feed, used fertilizer to keep up the fertility of his land, and spent the time used in caring for the cows in some form of intensive farming which would make him at least wages for his time.

It is a fact that you cannot make money on a losing proposition and it follows that the man who is losing money on dairy cattle is not making a living by selling dairy products. He is making his living because of the crops produced on the farm plus the fact that his living expenses are not large.

BALANCED RATION FOR CALF

Separator Milk Is Liable to Cause Indigestion, Capricious Appetite and Diarrhea.

(By GEORGE H. GLOVER, Colorado Agricultural College, Fort Collins.)

Separator milk is not a balanced ration for calves. On this feed alone, and the way it is usually given to them, they are liable to get indigestion, as shown by a bloated condition, capricious appetite and diarrhea. Most of this trouble can be averted by adding a handful of oilmeal, cornmeal or cottonseed meal, to supply, in a way, the fat that has been removed in the skimming. The milk should be given to them warm and never when it is frothy. Never allow a calf to drink all of the milk that it wants at one meal. It is bad practice to allow several calves to drink out of one trough, some of them will get too much. Care in feeding calves is of vastly more importance than "cures" for calf scours.

CALVES FED IN STANCHIONS

Practice Prevents Them From Getting Into Each Other's Feed—Also Protects Ears.

Feed the calves in stanchions. This keeps them from getting each other's feed and also helps to keep them from the habit of sucking each other. Heifers often have their udders injured by being sucked.

Success of Dairy Herd.

Much of the success of a dairy herd, large or small, lies in the proper raising of the heifer calves from the best cows.

Care for the Old Cow.

Give the good old cow a little better care. Every calf she gives you will more than repay you for any extra care.

Bug-Capacity of Toad.

A single toad will in three months devour over 10,000 insects.

Dampness as in tanneries, quarries, mines, etc.

A Pennsylvania Case

Peter F. Sellars, 1113 Kirkpatrick Ave., Braddock, Pa., says: "My back was so stiff I couldn't stoop and I often had bad dizzy spells with spots before my eyes. The doctor's medicine didn't relieve me and finally he suggested an operation. I used Doan's Kidney Pills instead and they made a complete and lasting cure."

Women Once Invalids

Now in Good Health Through Use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Say it is Household Necessity. Doctor Called it a Miracle.

All women ought to know the wonderful effects of taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound even on those who seem hopelessly ill. Here are three actual cases:

Harrisburg, Penn.—"When I was single I suffered a great deal from female weakness because my work compelled me to stand all day. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for that and was made stronger by its use. After I was married I took the Compound again for a female trouble and after three months I passed what the doctor called a growth. He said it was a miracle that it came away as one generally goes under the knife to have them removed. I never want to be without your Compound in the house."—Mrs. Frank Knobl, 1642 Fulton St., Harrisburg, Penn.

Hardly Able to Move.

Albert Lea, Minn.—"For about a year I had sharp pains across my back and hips and was hardly able to move around the house. My head would ache and I was dizzy and had no appetite. After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills, I am feeling stronger than for years. I have a little boy eight months old and am doing my work all alone. I would not be without your remedies in the house as there are none like them."—Mrs. F. F. Yost, 611 Water St., Albert Lea, Minn.

Three Doctors Gave Her Up.

Pittsburg, Penn.—"Your medicine has helped me wonderfully. When I was a girl 18 years old I was always sickly and delicate and suffered from irregularities. Three doctors gave me up and said I would go into consumption. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and with the third bottle began to feel better. I soon became regular and I got strong and shortly after I was married. Now I have two nice stout healthy children and am able to work hard every day."—Mrs. Clementina Duerring, 34 Gardner St., Troy Hill, Pittsburg, Penn.

All women are invited to write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for special advice,—it will be confidential.

Meudon in Wartime.

Meudon, the gay Meudon of trysts and moonlight promenades, has been transformed into a military camp. The station platform is crowded with uniformed soldiers of all branches; men on furlough in their suits of faded blue like dirty water, showing with pride holes torn in their coats by rifle balls, convalescents wearing the old red pantaloons, used only by those behind the fighting line, often with one leg folded up; Zouaves, whose baggy trousers, formerly blood-red, have now changed to an earthly color; Belgians in long brown coats, who never smile, and British Tommies spick and span as if they had just stepped from a bandbox.

The women, in passing, glance at the war crosses and smile.—Mme. Bernardini-Sjoestedt in Cartoons Magazine.

Misguided Optimism.

"Bliggins' wife is an optimist."

"How do you know?"

"Bliggins told me. When she heard there was going to be a street railway strike she congratulated him because he wouldn't have to catch a car."

The baby seal, being snow white, is invisible on the ice, one of the protective provisions of nature.

Grapes for the King.

It is reported that the king's grapevine at Windsor, in the gardens near Cumberland Lodge, is doing well this year and is likely to yield more than 500 bunches. Planted in 1775, it is 120 feet in length and 20 feet in width. The most remarkable vine in Europe, however, is the famous vine at Hampton Court, from which this is a cutting. This was planted in 1768 and still yields abundantly.

Dr. Peery's "DEAD SHOT" is an effective medicine for Worms or Tapeworm in adults or children. One dose is sufficient and no supplemental purge necessary.—Adv.

A Broad Hint.

There was a pretty girl at Brighton to whom a young man was saying good-by.

"Good-by," he said. "Good-by. Tomorrow we shall be miles and miles apart."

The girl looked at the blue sea, and her lip curled.

"Miles and miles, eh?" she said. "Well, we're not very close now."—London Opinion.

Exactly So.

"How much did the old miser leave behind him?"

"Everything he had."
